Antelopes

CLASS WILL

That we, the Senior Class of 1948, city of Post, state of Texas, being of sound and disposing mind and memory, do by these presents make, declare, and publish this our last will and testament.

First that we do will and bequeath, to wit, without reservations, our place in assembly and our honorable, dignified, and esteemed positions as Seniors of Post High School, to the Junior Class of 1948.

Carl Adams wills his ability to see with his hat over his eyes to Barry Ford. Loraine Baker wishes to leave her wittiness to Rowena Hodges, and we the Senior Class hope the Seniors of 1951 enjoy her jokes as much as we have enjoyed Loraine's. Stanley Bengewills his preference for blondes to Shorty Hester because Shorty seems to like them also. Teddy Benson leaves Alma Floyd to any boy who will treat her in the manner in which she is accustomed to being treated by him. Bonnie Bowen wants Daisy Holly to have her tendency to cry at the picture show and over the sad ending of books, because she always enjoyed them more that way. Laquita Brown leaves her title of the first engaged girl of the present Senior Class to any Junior girl who is lucky enough to get a man to propose. Billy Craig wills his curly hair to Donald Jones. Marilyn Curry wants Elsie West to have her sweet-tooth because she doesn't think college professors will be as nice about letting her eat candy in class as Mrs. Smith has been. Margie Edwards wills her place in "Who's Who" to anyone who can fool the teachers into thinking they are model students like she did. Joyce Evans wills her method of getting the first letter jacket to all the girls in Post High--may the best woman win. Hugh Ingram wills his kicking foot to next year's Post Antelopes. Billy Bob Hoover leaves all his girls to the boys of P. H. S. Bob Johnson and Ross Short leave their membership in the "barbershop quartet" to G. W. Lewis and Wayne Thomas. Lester Josey wills his office of Chief Osculator to his brothers R. E. and Roy. Charles Kiker leaves his bored look in class to anyone who might find it useful. Viola King would like to leave her brains to the dumb Juniors, but she may need them in college. Homer Joe Mason leaves his conscientious and studious attitude in class to O. K. Bowen. Bobby Maxcey wills his bashfulness around girls to Jim Ruth Norman. Melba McClellan leaves her giggle to all the girls of P. H. S., and there's enough for everyone. Juanita Mitchell wills some peace and quiet to her teachers. Billie Nichols leaves her last box of aspirin to next year's Caprock editor. Dolores Moore wills her ability to disagree with teachers to Ronnie Bouchier. Sudie Morris leaves her ability to get engaged--need we say more? Verna Parrish wills her rowdiness in class to Frances Benson. Ruby Pierce leaves the rest of her sister's bookkeeping workbook to the future bookkeeping classes. Billy Lee Patty wills his ability to lie down in the chairs in class to all tall boys, especially Cordell Custer. Jeneice Propst leaves her place by the radiator to all cold-natured people. Billie Sue Quisenbury would leave Herman Jenkins, but she wants to marry him. Jo Rita Ray leaves her pep and vitality to Janet Stewart. Glenn Roberts wills his way with women to all the boys in school. Billie Rogers wills her talkativeness to Alice Ruth Carr. Wanda Rogers leaves her instructions on how to be a good class secretary to next year's Senior Class Secretary. Gene Rylant leaves his ability to croon to Robert Smith. Loyd Shedd leaves his boisterousness to J. G. Cash. Mary Jo Stevens leaves her ability to sleep in class to Marjorie Freeman. N. W. Stone wills his ability to play the piano softly to Junior Malouf. N. B. Teaff wills good behavior in class to the noisy freshman. Helen Thaxton leaves her naive manner around boys to Shirley Schmidt. Martha Thomas wills her typing ability to all struggling would-be-typists. Claudia Ticer wills her whistle to all P. H. S. Wolves. Jane Turner wills her ability to get along without boys to Sue Bell Brister. Lois Veach leaves her platinum-blond hair to Carolyn Boren. Naomi Watson leaves her boy craziness to Anita Kennedy. Twila Welch leaves her ability to always get the old-maid part in plays to anyone who wants it. Roy Williams leaves his neatness to E. O. Young. Gaylon Young leaves his politeness to Charlie McGuire.

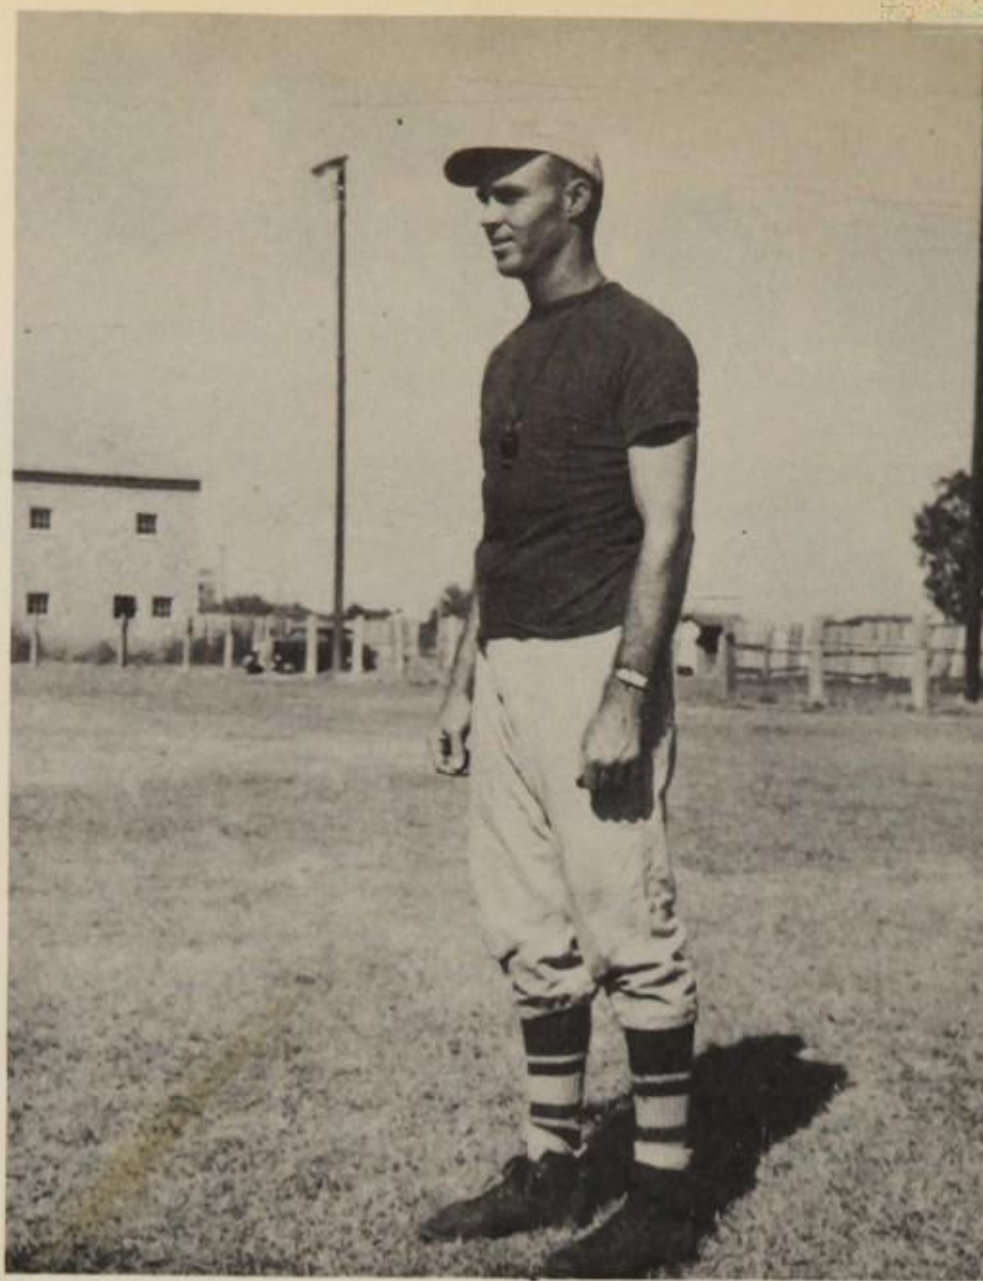

In Witness whereof we hereunto affix the name of the Senior Class of Nineteen hundred and forty eight, this twenty third day of March A. D. 1948.
